

Professional Preparation of a Windows 10 Migration Including Office 2016/365

With Windows 10, Microsoft has launched the most modern client operating system for both private and business users. Simple administration, improved performance and more productive work through a completely new user concept are the most frequently cited reasons for an operating system change. The question remains, which is the best way into the Windows 10 world. Is it the right decision to migrate the entire IT infrastructure at once or is it better to introduce Windows 10 together with new devices into the company gradually?

This "Consulting in a Box" package will help you gain clarity on the most important migration issues and to make the right decision for your company. Experienced consultants analyze your installed infrastructure and determine the benefits, risks, costs and opportunities of a Windows 10 introduction. They also examine when is the right time to upgrade your IT infrastructure and which version best meets your requirements. The selection of suitable migration paths and rollout recommendations round off our service. Take advantage of this „Consulting in a Box“ package and benefit from the diverse migration experience of our consultants.
